STORY OF INDIGO

Indigo is made from the leaves of the indigo plant. The production of indigo is a very labour-intensive process.

STEP1- Leaves of the plant are first soaked for a few hours in big vats that contain warm water. After sometime, a thick layer of bubbles and scum forms on top of the vat.

STEP -2 Workers smell and taste the fluid from time to time. As soon as the liquid tastes sweet and is dark blue in colour it is siphoned into another vat. The leaves are left behind.

Step-3 Some workers get into the vat and thread up and down to stir the liquid so that air gets into the mixture.

Step-4 Eventually the liquid turns a yellow brown colour with floating dark blue patches.

Step-5 The solution is left untouched for sometime. Indigo which is insoluble in water, settles at the bottom of the vat as a blueish sludge.

Step-6 The water is drained off and the sludge is transferred to another vat. It is then dried to make cakes of indigo.

For your Knowledge:The Making of the National Movement*Moderate Phase

Leaders: DadabhaiNaraji ,Pheroz Shah Mehta, Gopal Krishna Gokhle, MG Ranade

Demands: Inclusion of more Indians in ICS and government bodies. Removal of restrictions on civil liberties and press. Improvement in India's economic condition. Legislative Council to have more representatives. Amendment of Arms Act and promote education.

Methods: They were deeply influenced by Western education, they had faith in British, and they didn't think in terms of self-government but only wanted to increase political consciousness and unity of the people. The leaders adopted constitutional methods such as petitions, persuasion and appeals.

Consequences: most of the appeals went unheeded and leaders took no step to push the demands. Hence these leaders came to be called Moderates.

British Response: British enacted the Indian Council Act in 1892. This Act increased the number of Indians in government bodies but gave Indians no power.

Importance: Their Constitutional methods firmly established a democratic tradition in India.

Extremist Phase

This was the period where there was a growth of militant nationalism.

Reasons: Many Congress leaders were angered by the government's indifference and unsympathetic attitude to the growing economic distress of people. Large scale unemployment among educated Indians and frequent famines. Victory of Japan and Ethiopia broke the myth of invincibility of European imperialists powers.

They criticized the moderate method of begging and developed method of mass agitation.

Leaders: Lala Lajpat Rai, Bipin Chandra Pal, Bal Gangadhar Tilak .They all discarded the policy of moderates.

Tilak's Role: Tilak organised masses to religious festivals such as Ganapati festival and celebrations. He campaigned against heavy taxes. Tilak asserted 'Swaraj is my birth right and I shall have it'. Swaraj means self-rule and it became a new goal of extremists.

Partition of Bengal

Main Cause: Many of the policies of the viceroy Lord Curzon went against the interest of the Indians and angered the extremists. In 1905, Curzon partitioned Bengal into Hindu Majority (W. Bengal) and Muslim majority (E. Bengal). This attempt destroyed the unity of Bengalis and sparked off an 'anti partition movement' marked by fasts, processions and the singing of 'VandeMataram', protesters tied Rakhi to demonstrate brotherhood.

Methods of Agitation: The extremists adopted 'Boycott' and 'Swadeshi' as the chief methods of agitation. 'Boycott' involved rejecting everything British i.e.: British goods, offices and education. British goods were publicly burnt. Students boycotted their classes and joined the movement, for the first time Indian women joined a movement.

'Swadeshi' means of one's own country. To the nationalists it meant the use of Indian goods. It promoted self-reliance and establishment of new Indian Industries like textile, soap, oil. National education was promoted to strengthen nationalists' feel.

Government Response: Government unleashed terrible repression. This dealt a severe blow to the movement.

Split in the Congress; There was a Congress session in Calcutta where the moderates had serious differences with the Extremists, they did not accept 'Swadeshi' and 'Boycott' as regular methods of agitation and thus moderates and extremists parted ways at Surat session of Congress in 1907.

Lucknow Pact:In 1916 at the Lucknow session of the congress, the Muslim League and Congress were united. Both decided to fight for Swaraj together. In the same session Moderates and Extremists were united too. Thus the Indian National movement entered a new phase.

Gandhi as a Mass Leader:

Principles of Satyagraha

Gandhiji's policy of non violent resistant is known as satyagraha. The essence of satyagraha was to oppose the wrong without hurting the oppressor. A true Satyagrahi would not show any signs of hatred. To Gandhiji a Satyagrahi must undergo necessary training to have discipline to perform Satyagraha. Gandhiji's non violence was not a weapon of the weak and cowardly. As Gandhiji emerged as the leader of the Indian freedom struggle Satyagraha became one of the main weapons.

Champan (Bihar)

Peasants of Champan were facing the tyranny of Indian planters. In 1916 Gandhi ji went to Chamapan to help them get justice. He forced the British to withdraw the excessive tax imposed on the farmer.

Ahmedabad (Gujarat) - 1918

Gandhiji led the protest of textile workers who were demanding a raise in their wages.

Kheda (Gujarat) - 1917

He supported the peasants for removal of revenue tax.

He soon became a mass leader and had a large following.

Khilafat movement

Sultan or the Caliph of Turkey was the political and religious head of the Muslim world.

The victorious Britain after the World War 1 partitioned the Ottoman Empire as the result the Caliph's territorial possessions were reduced. This was humiliating on the Sultan's of turkey. It angered the Muslim community all over the world including Indian Muslims. Tilak and Gandhiji joined the Khilafat activists. Hindus and Muslims together participated in this movement which was soon followed by the non co operation movement.

Non Cooperation Movement: In 1920 Gandhiji started the Non Cooperation Movement urging the Indians not to cooperate with the British.

Methods:

1. Renunciation of titles Indians had received from the British.
2. Students were asked to boycott educational institutions run by the British. Indigenous institutions such as Jamia Millia and Kashi Vidyapeeth were set up.
3. People were asked to boycott foreign goods.
4. Strikes and hartals took place all over the country.
5. A campaign for non payment of taxes was to start at the last stage of the movement.

The movement was a success. British continued repressive measures .Gandhiji called off the movement in 1922. The reason was a violent incident that took place at Chauri Chaura (Gorakhpur).

Civil Disobedience Movement: Gandhi reached Dandi on 6th April and violated the law making salt. This was the beginning of the Civil Disobedience Movement. Soon it became a mass movement. The British government used repressive measures to crush the movement. Satyagrahis were imprisoned in large numbers and the Congress was declared illegal.

Soon after this the Gandhi –Irwin Pact (1931)was signed which was a political agreement between Colonial Government and the Indian National Congress.

Quit India Movement:

In 1942 Gandhi decide to initiate a new phase of the movement. It was the third mass movement against the British. The British must Quit India immediately, he told them. Gandhiji gave the slogan “Quit India’. He gave the mantra’ Do or Die’.

The British repression continued. The rebellion ultimately brought the Raj to its knees.
